WeGo Star to continue running modified service through October 18 Plan to resume full operations on October 19, pending safety assessment

NASHVILLE – The WeGo Star will continue to operate modified service through Monday, October 18, including the Titans Express.

Train times will remain the same, but the third a.m. and third p.m. trips will not run during this time. Monday's Titans Express passengers will be transported via bus from Donelson Station to Riverfront Station to complete their trip. Following the game, buses will meet passengers at Riverfront Station and transport them back to Donelson Station where they will board the train for their return trip.

The sinkhole along the tracks has been filled and is currently being assessed and monitored by a group of consultants. A complete safety assessment will be submitted on Friday. Pending approval from the safety assessment, WeGo plans to return to full regular train service beginning on Tuesday, October 19. If the assessment demonstrates more work needs to be done on the track, WeGo will continue providing bus connections between Donelson and Riverfront.
