

Title VI program updates: Make your voice heard in October

Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 is the Federal law that protects individuals from discrimination on the basis of their race, color, or national origin in programs that receive Federal financial assistance. WeGo Public Transit Title VI policy is intended to ensure equity and equal access in the provision of public transportation services in Davidson County regardless of race, national origin, or income. This includes ensuring that any changes to service or fares do not create a disparate impact on minority populations or place disproportionate burden on low-income populations.

Every three years, WeGo staff reviews and updates the agencies' policies and programs. The three-year review allows us to take a look at how we've done, assess any demographic changes to the communities we serve, and alter any policies based on a transparent process with the community.

WeGo Public Transit will hold two public meetings in October and have an open public comment period from Oct. 10-31 to receive comments about updates to the Nashville Metropolitan Transit Authority's (Nashville MTA) and Regional Transportation Authority of Middle Tennessee's (RTA) Title VI Programs.
