WeGo proposes system changes for Fall 2021 Service set to return to pre-pandemic levels, service hours to expand

NASHVILLE – WeGo Public Transit is proposing to restore service in the Fall to full pre-pandemic levels and make additional improvements in line with the Better Bus Plan. In the set of proposed changes, riders can expect to see longer service hours, new routes, streamlined routing, and more frequent trips on several routes throughout the system.

The agency will hold a public comment period from Wednesday, May 26 through Wednesday, June 16, 2021. During this time, customers will be able to view proposed service changes, participate in virtual meetings to provide comments directly to WeGo staff, or submit feedback via mail, phone, survey, and email.

Proposed changes, and any edits following public comment, will be taken to the Nashville Metropolitan Transit Authority (Nashville MTA Board) for approval on June 24, 2021. Approved changes will take effect October 3, 2021.
